WHY CHOOSE PORTABLE?

Portable cross-country jumps can be relocated to different areas of your farm as needed. By changing the location of a jump you can create different training questions or create more challenging questions by combining portables or using them in combination with existing fences. Portable jumps are just as sturdy as fixed obstacles but they allow flexibility in your design and help protect your footing because you can move them around.

Master Craftsman Eric T. Bull grew up on horseback and spent his youth eventing in New York and Connecticut. There he developed a love for the sport and a unique understanding for the layout and safe construction of courses for both events and driving competitions. Often this knowledge is combined with his special artistic and sometimes whimsical talents as illustrated by his carvings and unique designs.

WORKING WITH ERIC . . .

“ At very short notice Eric was asked to travel to Brazil to complete work on the cross country course for the Pan American Games. He helped to create a quality CCI course as well as educate local people in the art of course building. Not only is Eric a talented course builder, he is a great ambassador for the sport of eventing.

JIM WOLF

“ Eric has built for the Carolina Horse Park since its beginning and I can't imagine running events without him. His team's work ethic is unparalleled. They always have smiles on their faces no matter how many things go wrong. Thanks guys for everything.

LEADERS IN SAFETY GROUND ANCHORS

Eric Bull's company has become an industry leader in providing safer portable jumps. Importing an idea from the United Kingdom and improving upon the design, Eric has now created a ground anchor/ bracket combination which adds an additional level of safety to the installation of portables on cross country courses.

Eric is happy to discuss with you how ground anchors can improve your cross country course and help you determine what size you need for your portables.
